Focus on Organization

Being organized is being in control.

This past Friday was our first Organization Lesson. Scholars spent advisory time sorting through their desks, folders, and lockers in an effort to get organized. At Legacy College Prep, we teach scholars to have strong organizational skills. If our scholars are more organized they will complete homework every night, remember even the smallest details on assignments, and transition from one class to the next with all necessary materials. Strong organization is skill that will ensure success in college and beyond.
